WILLIAM CLAY FORD
President

After eleven years, the Detroit Lions have a new president in the person of young William Clay Ford, a vice-president of the Ford Motor Co.

FORD

Ford was elected to the position after Edwin J. Anderson resigned the post in January to devote his full time to the office of General Manager of the club. Anderson had held the position since 1949, while president of Goebel Brewing Co., until he became President and General Manager in June, 1958.

Ford, who has been a director of the Detroit Football Company since 1956, is the grandson of the late Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Co. and the youngest of four children of the late Edsel B. Ford. He will handle his football company duties in addition to his position as vice-president of product planning and styling with the Ford Co.

A graduate of Yale University, Ford has held positions in sales and advertising, in industrial relations, as quality control manager of the Lincoln-Mercury Division's jet engine defense project, and in numerous other divisions before assuming his present duties at the company staff level in 1956.

An avid sports enthusiast, Ford played tennis and soccer at Yale and currently is a topnotch amateur golfer. He annually competes in the Bing Crosby Invitational and is a low handicap player at the Country Club of Detroit.

In addition to his duties with the Ford Motor Co., Mr. Ford is president of the Edison Institute, which operates the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich., is secretary-treasurer of the Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, president of the Edsel B. Ford Institute for Medical Research, and a trustee of the Michigan Heart Association. He has been national campaign chairman of the United Cerebral Palsy Association four times and has had several key roles in the United Foundation.

Ford is married to the former Martha Firestone of Akron, O., and they have three daughters, Martha, Sheila, Elizabeth and one son, William Jr. The Fords live in Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan.

EDWIN J. ANDERSON
General Manager

Day to day operation of the Detroit Lions is under the direction of E. J. (Andy) Anderson.

Anderson had served in the dual role of president and general manager of the company since June, 1958, until he resigned the presidency last January. He had been elected president in December of 1949 and had retained the executive position for more than eleven years when he resigned. He will be working closely with the new president, William Clay Ford, in future planning for the Detroit Lions, and the combination seems to indicate more top leadership for the Lions for the future.

ANDERSON

Anderson was one of the original group of Detroit businessmen who purchased the Lions' franchise from Fred Mandel in 1948. Through the years, with the development of the sport of pro football, the Detroit franchise has become one of the most valuable in the National Football League. The Lions have combined success on the field with success at the box office and a good share of the credit can be traced back to the leadership ability of Andy Anderson.

The Lions have compiled one of professional sport's finest records in the all-important season ticket department. As last as 1950, the Lions sold a modest 8,685 season tickets and this has increased steadily to approach the 40,000 mark annually. Top year was 1958 when 42,154 season books were sold . . . in a stadium that has 45,686 resevered seats.

Anderson developed his interest in football by playing the game in college at Beloit, Wisc. It was during the Knute Rockne era at Notre Dame and the little Wisconsin school met the Irish. Reports dating back to that time picture Anderson as leading a game fight against overwhelming odds as Beloit lost, 19-3, after holding its own most of the game. After college, Anderson entered the advertising field and later held executive positions at Marshall Field in Chicago and with the Hiram Walker Co. before he joined Goebel Brewing Co. as vice president in charge of sales. He was named president of the brewery in 1941, while only 38 years of age, and held the position until 1958 when he resigned to devote full time to the Lions.

During the intervening years, Anderson has held several important civic posts, including the general chairmanship of the 1945 Community Fund, and presidency of the Children's Hospital of Detroit for three years, and the presidency of the Birmingham Community Center for two years. He still is a member of the board of the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty Company and the American Motorist Insurance Company.

Anderson lives in Bloomfield Hills, Mich. with his wife, Sunny. They have two daughters, Susan Jane Stenglein of Saginaw, Mich. and Marynell Williams of Birmingham, Mich., and three grandchildren.

'61 Lions Prospects

The Detroit Lions, certainly one of the top teams in the National Football League at the end of the 1960 season, hope to retain that same momentum to kickoff the 1961 season.

It was this momentum that saw the Lions win eight of their last ten games, including the Playoff Bowl game against Cleveland, after dropping four of the first five games of the season.

It would appear at the outset that rookies will have a difficult time breaking into the lineup, either offensively or defensively, at the start. Thirty-five NFL veterans are returning and all spots, up and down the line, are filled with holdovers.

Fortunately for the Lions, a fine group of rookies took over key spots last year and should be better in '61 with the experience. Included in the group are end Gail Cogdill, rookie of the year in the NFL, tackle Roger Brown, a defensive stalwart, center Bob Scholtz, and defensive halfback Bruce Maher. Linebacker Max Messner, injured and out the entire season in '60 former Olympic hurdler Glenn Davis, a pass catching possibility and quarterback Warren Rabb were others who should boost overall team strength for the coming season.

Top newcomers in the rookie department are end Dan LaRose of Missouri, a consensus All-American choice and an offensive tackle prospect; guard Dick Mills of Pittsburgh, a rangy offensive line prospect; tackle Errol Linden and halfback Pat Studstill of Houston.

OFFENSE

Jim Gibbons, who caught 51 passes last year to rank fourth in the league, and Cogdill figure at the starting ends on offense and the pair will be tough to contain. Between them, they caught 94 passes for 1246 yards. Veteran Sam Williams will back up Gibbons.

Ollie Spencer and Willie McClung, a pair of unsung offensive tackles, did a great job last year but may need some backing up for the long haul of 14 games. Newcomers like Dan LaRose and Errol Linden will help if they can come through here.

The guard posts are manned by Harley Sewell and John Gordy as the season opens. Sewell always has been among the game's best and Gordy, a 245-pounder in his fourth year, should reach the "star" class that has been predicted for him. Rookie Dick Mills is being counted on heavily to move into the thick of things here.

Bob Scholtz, the sophomore from Notre Dame, appears set at the offensive pivot post. No new talent is being brought in here but Ollie Spencer could fill in should the occasion arise.

At quarterback, the choice appears to be between Earl Morrall and Jim Ninowski, a couple of former Michigan State stars. Ninowski got the call for most of the '60 season and did a very creditable job in his first full season. Morrall, now in his sixth season, came on strong to lead the Lions to four straight victories over Baltimore, Green Bay, Chicago, and Cleveland at the end of the season and rated the inside track at the start. Wilson hopes one or the other will "take charge" when the season gets underway. Warren Rabb, sophomore from LSU, is the third signal-caller bidding for the job.

The running halfback spot will be manned by veterans Dan Lewis, who enjoyed a fine season in '60, and Hopalong Cassady. Jim Steffen, a former defensive back, is bidding for action here also. No rookies figure here.

The Lions appear well fixed with fast, agile, flanking backs in the persons of Terry Barr, Hopalong Cassady and Olympic hurdle champion Glenn Davis. The latter improved during his rookie season and the coaches have high hopes they can use his speed to advantage. Rookie Pat Studstill also is a prospect here.

Fullback strength is no problem with Nick Pietrosante returning. The husky Notre Dame star set a new team record with 872 yards rushing in '60 and seems to get better with each outing. While not equipped with blinding speed, Pietrosante has power and smartness and certainly ranks with the league's best as his fourth place finish in the rushing race would indicate. John Olszewski is the "backup" for emergncies here.

DEFENSE

At the close of last season, the Lions defense was probably the biggest factor in the overall success of the team. Twice Detroit scored shutouts over NFL opponents, blanking San Francisco on the coast, 24-0, and whitewashing Chicago in Detroit, 36-0. In all, in the final eight games, the Lions allowed only 93 points.

Darris McCord and Bill Glass are as solid a pair of ends as any team can boast. Rounding out the four-man line are All-Pro Alex Karras and sophomore Roger Brown. Karras enjoyed his best season in '61 and with the 295-pound Brown as a running mate, the Lions should be well fixed in this department for some time. Backing up this quartet are Gil Mains, a 31-year old veteran who can play any of the spots, and John Gonzaga, obtained from Dallas via trade during the pre-season.

Wilson feels that his linebacking department, manned by Joe Schmidt, Carl Brettschneider and Wayne Walker, is well-equipped for the 14-game campaign. The trio have a total of 19 years of experience in the NFL and still are youthful enough for the rugged schedule. Max Messner, out with a knee injury all of '60, should provide reserve strength. Jim Martin still is available for spot duty.

In the defensive backfield, the lineup includes Pro Bowlers Yale Lary and Dick "Night Train" Lane, the veteran Gary Lowe, and two youngsters, Bruce Maher and Dick LeBeau. Here again, Jim Steffen is available if his proposed move to offense does not work out.

SUMMARY

Wilson feels the Lions need to overcome the slow start which has plagued the Lions in recent years. Thus, he will concentrate on getting his veterans organized early to pick up steam for the opening of the season. With potential available for a fine running game with Pietrosante and Lewis, outstanding receiving with Gibbons, Cogdill, Cassady, etc., adequate quarterbacking with Morrall and Ninowski, and a topnotched defensive unit . . . the Lions plan to be a real contender all the way in '61.

With a fast finish in '60, the Lions might have won it all with a 14-game season. In '61, they'll have the chance . . . if the ball bounces right along the way.
